

Dear folks,

Doune the Rabbit Hole Festival has been cancelled. I was looking forward to it, but hopefully it will go ahead as planned next summer.

So my first in-person gig in a while will now be as part of the Edinburgh Fringe. It's on Friday 20th August at the Acoustic Music Centre and hopefully folks in Edinburgh can make it along. Tickets are limited.

There's also a slow session for fiddlers happening this evening. More on the slow session, the Fringe gig and some other bits and bobs below.

Very best,

Mairi x

A Fringe gig!

Slow sessions for fiddlers

A slow session for fiddlers is happening this evening (7-8.30pm BST) through Inside Out Musician. I lead the session and we cover a choice of well known tunes but play them at a speed we can all manage!

We've also just created an excellent Tunes section on my website that you'll get access to. There's sheet music and you can slow down and loop the tracks.

You're welcome to go and explore it...see what you find and you're welcome to join us.

STORM is appearing this summer!

by the Sea on Sunday 15th August.

She'll be making her appearances to the soundtrack of our album Storm which is pretty exciting. Go STORM!

STORM Across Scotland

A workshop with Fiona Ross

I'll be running a workshop with Fiona Ross, a traditional Scots singer living in Australia. It's called 'Nature's calling' and is an opportunity to appreciate nature and listen to our own.

We don't have an exact date yet... programme still in the making. But we'll keep you in the loop through the newsletter and on the social channels. Really looking forward to it!
