Campbell's Ceilidh

Last Sunday, I was really happy to be able to welcome Marc Pilley who sang us a stunning new song. Buy and listen to Marc's music here: arksong.bandcamp.com

Zooby, our technical host, also writes poetry and is a voiceover artist. He manages to bring all these gifts to Campbell's Ceilidh, leaving us with a fresh poem every week. This was last Sunday's offering: 'Far on the other side'.

A huge thank you to Mairi for giving me an experience I didn't think was possible online" Feedback after a recent workshop Mairi gave to music therapists.

New single: Come to your senses. Out now.

Davy Clincart and I made a track recently up at his studio on Lismore. It was inspired by the words that Laura Newbury wrote from Angels and 'other' energies in response to 'How do we heal the world?'. 'Come to your senses', was the answer.

Puppy love

We have a puppy during the day - holy moly he's cute! He belongs to Dave's nephew Kenneth and his wife who both work full time, so it may be a long term living arrangement. He's called Cody. He's now 5 months but probably won't get much bigger.
